- I have noticed you observing.
- for example when I was helping a child through her feelings when dad dropped her off.
- You have been helpful with set up and tidy up duties.
- You come to me with a question about a child saying something inappropriate to you. You told me how you handled the problem. It was respectful to yourself and the child. It's also a learning opportunity for the child and yourself.
- We had a good chat on Thursday about how you are feeling this semester and about the children.
- You are always willing to help and follow direction.
- You also question things which can lead to learning for yourself and for other educators.
