→ Very nervous in the beginning.

→ Noeleane wanted to bring Gvan as well, however, I did not really know him and was feeling very nervous already and asked if it was ok to not have him there today.

→ The initial, getting out of the building was hard, I was nervous, children are used to Noeleane in the front. I was trying to guide them and front load them with instructions.

* Definitely room for improvement.

→ Once we left the building, a sense of calm came over me! I definitely felt much better.

→ I did tell Noeleane that I don't have a fixed plan. The trades building is somewhere I wanted to go to. But we did not have to rush or anything.

→ So, we took our time, we walked slowly. Going down to the building, we stopped and looked at the many trucks that there.

→ The children got super excited to see them ~~being at~~ and even more when we told them that is where we were going.

→ We walked slowly through the building, looking at all the different trucks, wood, the diff work that was going on there.

→ They loved the bus seats that were there.

→ We finished our walk through of the building rather fast.

faster than I expected.

→ We went to the gardens, the children played the statue game.

→ We had a small "picnic".

→ I walked to the pond, watched the busy bees on the way, saw many many goldfish ~~along the way~~ in the pond.

→ I watched the waterfall, rolled down the hills.

→ I walked through the trees and back to daycare.

→ We had to have mini meetings and stop many times to remind the children to not walk on the road. They were all fixed.

→ Walked through the gate and got all the children in and finally breathed!

→ I jinked it by telling Noeleane it was a good walk.

→ As we came back, Ravindeen had to take a child in and I had to go to that yard. I stepped in and two children were fighting. One got scratched.

→ ~~hard~~ To deal with that was hard, as the child who scratched ran away and was hiding under a table inside.

→ Noeleane had to switch me out for this.

→ Helped with a lunch table and then had to swap out Noeleane, she had to help other children.

→ By the end of lunch time, swapped out again to help a child who needed help and only wanted me to nap.

Informal feedback from ^{Noelene} ~~Ryleen~~

→ She could sense I was nervous and glad I told her. Even about not having Evon on the walk.

→ While doing the mini snack at our picnic, I did reach out to Noel to help with water and later told her that I am not used to asking her to do things. Usually I am being told. She said, she was glad I asked for help and wanted to offer but didn't want to overstep. So, me letting her know this helps her too.

*Communication is key!
